Locations: Sonnenstr. 96 (SON 96) & Kostbar, Emil-Figge-Str. 40a (EFS 40a)

The International Summer Convention 2025 (ISC 2025) activities will be a mix of different workshops, research talks, and meetings. and is aimed at the teachers, lecturers, trainers, and academic staff who are working with international projects (not only related to Fachhochschule Dortmund). The training week is covering such topics as:

- Intercultural training
- Research presentations
- Workshop on the Cross-border projects
- Workshop on processes in the International Office
- Train the Trainer courses
- and the series of Project meetings.

We are also working on giving you the opportunity to exchange experience, see what is happening in our many other projects, talk to the different faculties and find new opportunities for your universities.

The event is held with the support of such projects as Erasmus+ KA220-HED NomadTrail, DAAD SusProLab, DAAD InduTwin@Scale, Erasmus+ CBHE ComplIT, Erasmus+ KA171, HAR and DAAD Eastern Partnership projects.

Participation is free of charge and the language of the event is English.

We will analyse the role of culture in meeting styles, discuss challenges of intercultural communication in meetings, and ask how we can design formats that optimise the chance of success.
10:30-12:30	Workshop on how to run Cross-border Projects – Mensa SON A by Carsten Wolff, PhD International projects in higher education are one of the most important tools to foster deeper and more sustainable cooperation among universities. During the ISC 2024, most of the partners join based on an ongoing cooperation in international projects, e.g. funded by Erasmus+ or by DAAD. Meanwhile, a body of methods and best practices has evolved on how to apply for such projects and how to run them successfully. Within our consortia, we started to compile guidelines and collect tools. The goal of the workshop is to introduce and systemise these methods and best practices. Participants are expected to contribute their experiences and ideas. The workshop has two immediate goals: 1) we want to compile a methods handbook for international cooperation projects, and 2) we want to initiate new funding applications for the future of our partnerships and consortia. Project-based learning is a common didactic format in higher education. The workshop will dive into the methods for conducting projects with students from different countries, participating on-site (e.g. in a summer school) or in a virtual setting. This format borrows ideas from (COIL). In the international networks of Fachhochschule Dortmund, we conduct such (virtual) cross-border projects for many years.
